Lesson 5

Lines That Slant Forward

Lesson 5

Lines That Slant Forward

13

Aim of the Lesson

To teach the forward-slanting manuscript stroke.

Directions

The children should trace over the solid and dotted lines in the first row. In row two, forward-slanting lines should be drawn between the dots, beginning each stroke at the x. In row three, forward-slanting lines again should be drawn, beginning each stroke at the x. Row four is a review of the backward-slanting line. Backward-slanting lines are to be drawn, beginning each stroke at the x.
