

45. The Daughter of Jairus

One time when Jesus healed a man, the man wanted to go with Jesus. But Jesus said, “Go back to your home. Tell others about the great things God did for you.”

The man obeyed. When Jesus came back to that city, many people were waiting for Him. They were glad to see Jesus.

One man named Jairus came and fell at Jesus’ feet. He said, “Please come to my house and heal my only daughter. She is so sick that she may die.”

Jesus started to walk to Jairus’ house. A crowd of people went with Jesus. In the crowd was a woman who was sick for twelve years. She had gone to doctors and had spent all her money, but she only grew worse. Now she thought, “If I can only touch Jesus’ clothes, I will be healed.” So she came close to Jesus and touched the hem of His robe. Right away she was healed.

Jesus turned and asked, “Who touched Me?”

Peter and others said, “Master, many people are walking close to You. Anyone could easily touch You.”

But Jesus said, “Someone touched Me on purpose because I felt healing power go from Me.”
